1

PICK YOUR DOMAIN NAME

A domain is what the public will type into their browser to access your website. For example, our domain here at Real Geeks is "realgeeks.com"

A well-picked domain can make it easier for potential and existing clients to discover your site. We know picking a domain name is no easy task.

Below are some suggestions from the Real Geeks team (be sure to replace "CITY" with the name of your primary market).

We recommend using .COM domains because this is the default in the mind of the consumer (46% of all websites and 495 of Fortune 500 companies choose .COM domains).

2

PURCHASE YOUR DOMAIN NAME

You will need to purchase a domain name from a domain provider.

Some common domain providers are GoDaddy and Google Domains.

When purchasing your domain, don't worry about purchasing SSL security services (we provide this for free), any kind of web hosting, and/or custom website services offered during the checkout process. All you need to purchase is the domain itself - additional services are NOT required for your Real Geeks website.

Tip for GoDaddy: Create or log in to your GoDaddy account prior to purchasing a domain.
