Jim Clark of Authority Real Estate represented us over the course of the about 18 months it took to complete our downsizing. We purchased a brand new home in a development and Jim was instrumental in asking all the right questions and getting the answers we needed to understand our purchase. We came away with a lesson for life: never buy a house – especially from a builder – unless you have a buyer's broker on your team. We are very happy with our brand new home. Thanks especially to Jim.

What a great experience! Anytime you sell or buy a property it's a stressful time, Jim's detailed, honest and complete approach reduces that dynamic, you truly feel like he has your best interests in mind in all the stages. His communication, was timely and just often enough. Always available for questions or a status report.

With efficiency and effectiveness like we experienced with Jim, why would anyone go anywhere else?

Jim was very professional at putting together our home on all areas for advertising the listing. Flyers, Internet, Zillow and many others. He answered all question promptly that came up during the process till the successful closing of our home. We sold are home for more than the other agents market appraisals. Would we use Jim again if needed absolutely! He gets the job done with no pressure.

"Jim is outstanding at his job. My wife and I tend to be a bit high-strung, controlling and demanding, but we're attorneys. We're practically Willie Nelson in that crowd, but outside that circle, we can be tough to handle. Jim was terrific for us both in selling our home and being patient during our search for the next one. It's one thing handling other people's stressful issues and quite another handling one's own. He talked us down during the stressful times and helped us see the smart moves to make, which ultimately got our house sold above asking and helped us locate our next home in a very difficult, dry inventory market. We would hire Jim again in a heartbeat. I highly recommend him."

"Jim was very patient and knowledgeable on the types of properties I asked him to find. He took the time out of his day various times before he presented a property to me which he thought would fill my needs. I have worked with various real estate brokers that try to "sell" you property. Jim really listened and provided me exactly the type of property I was looking for. I would personally recommend Jim to my family and friends when they look for a real estate broker."
