HOUSEHOLD HAZARDOUS WASTE

Many products used in the home, garden, garage and hobby shop contain hazardous chemicals that can potentially harm the user or the environment.

Anything marked “caution,” “keep out of reach of children,” “danger,” “poison,” “hazardous,” “flammable,” “harmful or fatal if swallowed,” “causes severe burns on contact,” “do not use near heat or flame,” “vapor harmful,” “eye and skin irritant,” or “use in a well-ventilated area” should be considered hazardous.

Use safety precautions when using, storing, or disposing of any hazardous products. When discarding these products, they become household hazardous waste requiring proper disposal.

Tips for Becoming an Environmentally Aware Consumer

For a list of alternative household cleaning products go to www.cdphe.state.co.us/hm/hhw/index.htm

If you buy household chemicals,

- Buy the smallest amount possible – you can always buy more.
- Share leftover products with friends, neighbors, and others who can properly use the product.
- Use it up!
- Read the label and use only as directed.
- Keep products in their original, labeled containers.

"JUNK" MAIL REDUCTION

It's good to recycle your junk mail.
It's even better to stop getting it.

- In 2005, 5.8 million tons of catalogs and other ad mail ended up in the trash – enough to fill over 450,000 garbage trucks. (U.S. Environmental Protection Agency)

- That's more than 100 million trees – the equivalent of deforesting the entire Rocky Mountain National Park every four months. (The Center for a New American Dream calculation from Conservation and U.S. Forest Service statistics)

SIX-PACK RINGS

Ring Leader Recycling Program
(http://www.ringleader.com/guest/menu/program/index.html)

- More than 12,000 schools in all 50 states have participated
- Kids collect six-pack rings to be recycled into other plastic items, including plastic lumber and plastic shipping pallets
- From 1991 through 2008, over 331 million rings were recovered from the waste stream.
Smoke detectors may contain small amounts of radioactive material. Call the manufacturer's 800 number for a possible take-back program for spent smoke detectors.

Alternately, if disposed of one at a time, detectors can be placed in regular household trash.
